Master Calendar Update

New LMS SDLearn is Coming Soon

The Bureau of Human Resources is in the process of implementing a new learning management system called SDLearn, by Cornerstone OnDemand. SDLearn will offer state employees the opportunity to continue to develop and learn throughout the year. The LMS will soon serve as the single location for employees to go for all required and elective training courses.

SDLearn's training catalogue will include over 2,500 courses purchased through Content Anytime. Additionally, you will be able to register for all in-person classes, virtually led classes, and agency-specific trainings. Agency specific trainings will be accessible only by employees of the specified agencies.

The system is designed to recommend classes to employees by established course selections and specified interests, as well as what will be suggested and required by managers and administrators.

SDLearn will be accessible through Single Sign-On. An email will go out to all staff once SDLearn is officially online.

Master Training Calendar Updated for Fall

The Master Training Calendar has been updated for the fall schedule. Classes have been scheduled for September, October, November, and December. More training opportunities will be added in the coming weeks.

September 2022

New Microsoft Classes are Being Added

Several new Microsoft classes have been added to the Master Training Calendar for the fall. All classes are scheduled for 10:00 – 11:00 a.m. CT.

Microsoft Teams

Four separate classes on Microsoft Teams were added in September and October. These include Getting Started with Microsoft Teams (L100), Explore Teams and Channels (L200), Advance Tips and Tricks, and Mastering Teams Meetings.

Excel

Both Excell L100 and Excel L200 have new sessions scheduled for November. These courses are designed to educate both novice and intermediate Excel users, respectively.

Sharepoint

Sharepoint L100 and Sharepoint L200 have new sessions scheduled for the end of November and early December. Like the Excel classes listed above, these are designed as introductory and intermediate courses.
